Twilight Times Books

Summer 2016 Catalogue

Twilight Times Books was established January 1999 as an epubisher. In 2004, we evolved from an Internet epubisher to a small press print publisher when we published 21 titles in trade paperback. In 2005, we acquired new distribution channels for both our print books and ebooks more than doubling overall sales. From 2006 to 2015, we have seen a steady increase in sales revenue of about 15% per year.

From inception, Twilight Times Books has published award-winning books that consistently receive four and five star reviews. Hundreds of libraries across the U.S. have purchased our books. Several titles have been selected as required reading for college classes in such places as George Washington University, Loyola College, Pfeiffer University, University of Kentucky, etc.

Twilight Times Books was listed in the Writer's Digest 2012 Top 100 Markets for Book & Magazine Writers. We are currently listed in the Literary Market Place and we are on the Mystery Writers of America list of approved publishers as well as the International Thriller Writers list of recognized publishers.

We have a wide selection of historical, humor, literary, mainstream, mystery, SF/F and YA books. These first editions are 5x8 trade paperback originals and selected limited edition hardcover.

Dragon's Moon by Bent Lorentzen

Finalist in the Dream Realm Award for the Young Adult category.

A young dragon is beset by childhood trauma and a disability goes in quest of his identity and happiness. Enduring severe hardships in his search for his roots, he ultimately discovers his disability may be a key weapon against a terrifying antagonist.

"...Magic, quests, the fight between good and evil, they are all here, with dragons as the protagonists, but with all too human emotions. The young dragon's treatment is heartbreaking, but his quest is also a quest for his identity, who he really is and what he is. A great read for any age." ~ Reviewed by Annette Gisby, author of Writing the Dream.

"...As our little dragon is constantly being led by his conscience, this is a wonderful tool for children as they learn to recognize wrong from right. The characters are all fully developed and the land of Nistala will definitely engage a child's imagination. This is a story that I recommend to all children that love tales of fantasy." ~ Reviewed by Chere Gruver for Timeless Tales Reviews.

Listen to the Ghost by Beverly Stowe McClure

Finalist in the Dream Realm Award for the Young Adult category.

A girl's quest to discover the truth not only about her ghost, but about herself, as well. The story is set in Charleston, South Carolina where, according to legend, many old houses have a resident ghost.

"...I am always looking for a book which will ignite and delight the imaginations of my adolescent nieces and nephews. Listen to the Ghost fits the bill. McClure does a fine job of sparking the reader's imagination and creating suspense. ...Listen to the Ghost should delight the younger adolescent readers." ~ Reviewed by Deb Watson for Blue Iris Journal.

"Writer McClure creates a nicely honed work filled with spine tingling action, clever scenarios, and well fleshed characters in this deftly written narrative. Forceful motivations, precarious twists of story line, first class conversation fill the pages in this exciting read.

"Sure to please the target audience Listen to the Ghost has a place in the home pleasure reading library." ~ Reviewed by Molly Martin.

Nine Lives and Three Wishes by Jennifer St. Clair

"...This story is fun. It's easy to follow, just suspenseful enough, and has a satisfying ending. It's written for young adults, but I'm going to harp on my usual string and say, "Who's a young adult?" I can see people as young as nine and as old as ... well, however old ... liking it--so long as they're ready for a good time and a lively adventure."

~ Reviewed by Gray Walker, The Green Man Review, Copyright © 2004 The Green Man Review.

"Nine Lives and Three Wishes is an entrancing, well written fantasy tale completed with a plot presenting a perfect blend of realism and fiction sure to enchant the target audience of strong middle grades readers to young adults. Writer St Clair adroitly paints a sharply focused unclouded illustration of each milieu and the character's populating it. Nine Lives and Three Wishes will keep the reader guessing from beginning to end.

"This is an easily read tale certain to be reached for often for pleasure reading among the 11-15 year old set. Nine Lives and Three Wishes is an excellent choice for the home and school library. The tale will intrigue the 'read to set' as an older student mentor reads aloud to them. Nine Lives and Three Wishes will nicely do for the 'teacher' reading time in middle to upper grades during the 'quiet time' following the lunch recess and will be often read by youngsters."

~ Reviewed by Molly Martin for Midwest Book Review.

Valley of the Raven by Ken Ramirez

"...As the completely satisfying adventure escalates toward a pulse-pounding finish, Mr. Ramirez incorporates surprising, yet believable twists in his characters, all the while subtly sharing life lessons about responsibility, stewardship of the land, respect for people of all nationalities, and following one's destiny....

"I highly recommend Valley of the Raven to readers of all ages. It will quench a deep universal thirst for adventure and heroism. My only question is this: will Mr. Ramirez grace us with a sequel?"

Cassie Scot

“In this entertaining series opener, Amsden (The Immortality Virus) introduces readers to the eponymous Cassie, a decidedly mundane member of a magical family. ...Readers will enjoy Cassie’s fish-out-of-water struggles as she fights magical threats with little more than experience and bravado.” ~ Publishers Weekly

Dragon Fire

“This fantasy debut, set in a small town in the Arctic Circle, blends a story of teenage love and heartbreak with a fantasy revolving around a small society of dragons. ...Suitable for both YA and adult readers, this unusual fantasy should appeal to fans of dragon tales.” ~ Library Journal

Equity of Evil

“...a shocking indictment of the pernicious role of greed in the medical world. A powerful read!” ~ Robin Cook, International Bestselling Author.

Reunion

“Ken Lizzi’s novel puts a fascinating spin on the time-honored post-apocalypse tale. There is action a-plenty, and the writing is adept and engaging. It’s refreshing to see something other than evil vampires or mindless zombies threatening humanity. Nice job, Ken, I look forward to seeing your next effort.” ~ Steve Perry, New York Times Bestselling Author

Secrets and Lies

“...The growing complexity of Cassie’s world makes this an entertaining installment, focusing as much on the will-they, won’t-they romantic chemistry between Cassie and Evan as on the primary mystery...” ~ Publishers Weekly

Under Strange Suns

“The mysterious Ken Lizzi shines again with a timeless tale of man versus man, man versus machine, and man versus alien. Under Strange Suns, like his debut novel Reunion (reviewed 12-OCT-2014), is packed with strong, sensible heroes, spectacular battles, and above all, a sensawunda...” ~ Carol Kean for Perihelion Science Fiction

ANSELM: A METAMORPHOSIS by Florence Byham Weinberg

Christians believe the spirit survives the body. The philosopher René Descartes equated mind and spirit and tried to prove them totally separable. Are they?

Cocky young Professor Eric Behrens curses the world and wishes he were someone, anyone, else. He trips, is knocked out, and wakes in the body of a middle-aged, overweight Benedictine monk with a severe heart defect. He must survive in an alien environment and in a defective body, while trying to “go home again.”

EQUITY OF FEAR by Rudy A. Mazzocchi

Based on true medical discoveries and ongoing research, this second novel in The EQUITY Series touches on the most personal emotion impacting everything man faces on a daily basis. Fear drives us all, be it fear of failure, the fear of being alone, fear of the dark, or fear of death. Once again, man’s predisposition to take control and ownership of the human spirit is at the core of each matter, always for the sake of profit and personal gain. Such is our brutal new world, where fear becomes the equity of evil.
